love. honor. respect.

Susan and Barry Menashe have generously contributed to the local Portland Jewish Retirement Center, Cedar Sinai Park, with a focus on supporting its active assisted living program at the Rose Schnitzer Manor. Their donation will help ensure that retired community members continue to receive exceptional care while staying actively engaged in the community. Rose Schnitzer Manor, located on Cedar Sinai Park's serene 27-acre campus in southwest Portland, has built a strong reputation for its person-centered approach to care, offering residents a joyful environment grounded in Jewish values of love, honor, and respect.

Cedar Sinai Park has been a trusted part of the Portland community for over a century. It welcomes people of all faiths and backgrounds into a warm and inclusive environment. With a mission to provide comfort, independence, and dignity to elders and adults with special needs, the organization fosters a vibrant and interconnected community.

The Menashes' support strengthens Cedar Sinai Park's ability to build meaningful connections and uphold its long-standing tradition of care and respect for every individual. This ensures that residents continue to thrive in a loving and supportive atmosphere.
